A GOOD RETRENCHMENT TIME

GOVERNMENTAL waste has grown to be almost criminal. Each succeeding congress exceeds the limit of expenditures of its predecessor, yet every member of congress knows down in his heart that the country could save at least $300,000,000 a year if the affairs of the country were operated along economical lines.

The "pork barrel" bill, otherwise called the rivers and harbors bill, is a wanton waste of the money extorted from the people. In erecting public buildings the government spends almost twice as much as individuals or firms would spend for the same structures.

When popular senators or congressmen are reelected by their constituents, sinecure positions are created for them, and the defeated candidates become known as "lame ducks."

These lame ducks are not entitled to a penny of the princely salaries they draw for doing nothing but being good fellows.

With the cost of living continually on the upgrade and with many thousands out of work, the coming congress should apply the pruning knife—and apply it deep.

There has been altogether too much extravagance in the management of the government as well as of the railroads, and the time has come to establish an era of economy, but without parsimony. When it comes to voting upon appropriations each member of the senate and house should vote just as he would were he voting away his own good money.

Extravagance is almost as iniquitous as graft when the taxpayers are hard pressed to make expenses in other directions. The voters will expect the coming congress to put a stop to many leaks.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BY MARGARET MASON

(Written for the United Press)

Eve's mantle has descended on the modern maid, they say. But just what sort of mantle do they mean?

The only mantle poor Eve knew was when a rosy blush. Had mantled all her snow brow serene.

The only coat she had, no doubt, was just a coat of tan.

Her only wrap when she was wrapped in thought.

The modern maid don't give a rap for any wrap like that.

For they sport every cloak that can be bought.

They wouldn't even give a fig for Eve's bareskin outfit.

Selected sealskins they prefer, I've noted.

They have a different wrap and cloak for everything they do—

Why, even when they're ill, their tongues are coated.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Keeping up with the fashion means adapting a bit of brogue and "capering" up with them this season.

Such a bewildering array of capes and wraps and mantles and coats and jackets and flaring cloaks are offered for each and every occasion.

The sumptuous wraps of brilliantly tinted velvets, fur-collared, cuffed and edged are the same wonderful creations as shown earlier in the season.

The military capes and flaring Cossack capes, the braided and frogged military jackets, have their staunch adherents still. It is of the new sports coats, however, delightfully appropriate for golf, for motor-ing, for skating, for hiking or just plain knock-about wear that descriptions are now in order.

There is a great run on corduroy for sport coats and they are shown in all the brilliant colorings as well as in the more conservative tones of "tete de negre," Russian green, and putty, mustard and corbeau blue. A

Leopard skin coats collared and cuffed in beaver or seal skin are very striking but even simply self-trimmed they have a three-weekish effect that outdoes by far Glynn Eleanor's old tiger skin.

Clubwomen Urge Fair Play for Fallen Girl

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—"Stop the mill that grinds to death the women and girls of the street," will be the demand made upon the Illinois legislature this winter by a delegation of Chicago clubwomen.

Abolishment of the system of fining women of the underworld when they are brought into police courts will go a long way toward "stopping the mill," the clubwomen declare. Providing homes for the reclamation of girls who have gone wrong is the second step the women will bring to the attention of the legislature.

The delegation that will go to Springfield to work for the legislation will be headed by Miss Kate Adams, superintendent of Coulter House, a home for girls.

particularly stunning model in this material is almost ankle length with a flaring bell shaped back and a belt consisting of two stitched straps across it. The collar is the new military effect and buttons up tightly about the throat. Short box coats buttoned up high around the throat and widely belted come in the cord-roy as well as in the huge horseblanket plaid effect just like big brother's mackinaw. These shorter coats are of course more desirable for skating and golf, but going them one better for these sports are the lovely light weight but fleecy warm belted sweaters of angora wool in softest pastel tints of old rose, old blue, old gold, sage green and gray. With jaunty caps to match, what skittish skater or girlish golfer could ask for more perfect apparel?

As usual, clever woman has helped herself to the best of masculine garb for her own needs. She has taken his new plaidly raglan of Scotch mixture or English tweed and lifted it bodily to her own fair shoulders, there to do for a storm coat, a motor coat, a hiking coat or travel coat of much and varied service.

A novel raincoat of transparent rubberized crepe de chine is the latest chic covering to keep merrily from the wrathful elements. They come in shimmering and shining greens and yellows and are as durable as they appear delicate. Perky little hats to match make up a moisture proof outfit guaranteed to keep their lucky wearers as dry as the state of Kansas. You are sure to be spotted as ultra smart if you are wearing a leopard skin coat this winter. There seems to be something particularly fitting about this feline fur that adapts itself to most types of femininity.

(Certainly not, Geraldine, no catty insinuations are meant.) There's something fascinatingly barbaric and elemental about it that makes it especially alluring on a sinuous brunette with glowing olive skin and scarlet lips and dusky eyes.

Thus coated, lovely woman has it on the leopard whose skin she is sporting inasmuch as she can change her spots with impunity by simply shedding his hide.

Leopard skin coats collared and cuffed in beaver or seal skin are very striking but even simply self-trimmed they have a three-weekish effect that outdoes by far Glynn Eleanor's old tiger skin.

A LITTLE SPORTING GOSSIP

By Hal Sheridan

United Press Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—When the Lightweight Champion Fred Welsh stowed away his share of the receipts for his bout with Young Shugrue at Madison Square Garden last Wednesday, it brought his earnings for five weeks up to more than $50,000.

It broke all get-rich-quick fighting known to civilized and uncivilized mankind. If Welsh could keep up the record for twelve months his income for the fifth-two weeks would be the astonishing total of $520,000.

But the money making record was not the only one smashed to atoms. During the year and six months that Willie Ritchie held the lightweight crown, he fought fewer men than Welsh has in the past thirty-five days. No champion in any division has fought that many men in the same period of time.

Mighty few champions have fought that number of good men throughout their whole careers as title holders. Welsh has fought them all, as they came along, as has been mentioned once previous in this column. Every man he has faced has been in the top division of lightweights. There were Baldwin, Cross, White, Wolgast and Shugrue. Both Wolgast and Ritchie found alibis to prevent a meeting with Young Shugrue. Welsh merely named the money for which he'd fight—and went in and fought.

In between the Baldwin and Shugrue fights, Welsh met Fred Yelle at Boston on November 24, and Young Brown at Syracuse two nights later.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Killing the fight game in California may be fine for civilization, but it will be pretty tough on the fight game experts and the real champions. When the last twenty-round battle is fought on the coast, it will mean that there will be left only one place in the United States where that length fight can be pulled off—New Orleans.

This will mean that there will be vastly more "championship battles" of ten rounds length pulled off than ever before. In a ten round fight the best title-holder that ever lived stands more show of losing his title than in a longer affair. Ten round fights very seldom end via the sleep route, and everyone knows how light-bly decisions are hurried about after a battle in which neither side wins decisively.

It doesn't take a professor of applied mathematics nor a man with Sherlock Holmes sense in the science of deduction to figure that under such conditions the woods, prairies and cities will be full of champs, near-champs and cheese champs claiming all the titles in this world and the next. If fight managers remain unchanged, and at the present writing there seems absolutely no hope for the better along this line, they will lay claim to a title even if only one fight expert out of a dozen says after a scrap that they would have received a decision had a decision been made.

We hesitate to make any suggestions regarding possible ways in which to settle the terrible baseball war that has left so many magnates hoarse and throaty for fear of having the Noble Peace prize pinned on us. However, should we stop hesitating and suggest, we say that if the National League really ousted Murphy, the American League Big Bill Dwyer and the Federal Gilmore, it ought to be even up and time to shake hands all around.

The secret is out. Harvard's success, despite the loss of Hickey, was explained by a Crimson grad the other day. Hickey's appendix, kept in a bottle, was surreptitiously carried to New Haven by two superstitious undergrads who had access to where it was kept. Those two times that Yale threatened to stave the bottle was unwrapped and held on high. Believe it or not, that's the way it was told to us.

Lehigh produced the best drop-kicker of the season in Cahill, who booted the leather over ten times in seven games.
